Wage Curbs Dispute Stalling Government Control Program

Saturday Statement Is Possible

Labor Bloc Slows Unity On Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — A dispute over wage controls stalled the government's price-wage curb plans today and some stabilization officials forecast further delay in issuance of a freeze order.

The long-awaited directive, first promised for Thursday and then put off until today, may now be held up until tomorrow.

One factor in the picture is that both the stock exchange and commodity markets will be closed Saturday afternoon and would not be disturbed by the drastic anti-inflation decree.

The chief reason for delay, however, is said to be the wage tangle. Price officials asserted they could have moved at any time in the last two days but are taking advantage of the postponement to polish up their order.

DEFENSE MOBILIZER Charles E. Wilson and Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston are expected to be thoroughly questioned about the situation in a scheduled appearance later today before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee.

Labor members of Cyrus S. Ching's nine-man Wage Stabilization Board reportedly have flatly refused to give their endorsement to any wage "freeze" — even though temporary.

Officials believe that the pay freeze will have to be ordered by Johnston, who supervises the operations of both Ching and Price Administrator Michael V. DiSalle.

The original plans called for DiSalle and Ching to announce the price-wage order jointly, but Ching has been unable in a series of day and night conferences to get unanimity among his board members.

The wage board, comprised of public, industry and labor representatives, apparently will confine itself to announcing a long-range formula to supplant the freeze—a flexible policy allowing certain regulated adjustments.

It is believed the formula will (Continued on Page Two)

Korean Amputee Veteran Labeled Most Important Man In U.S.

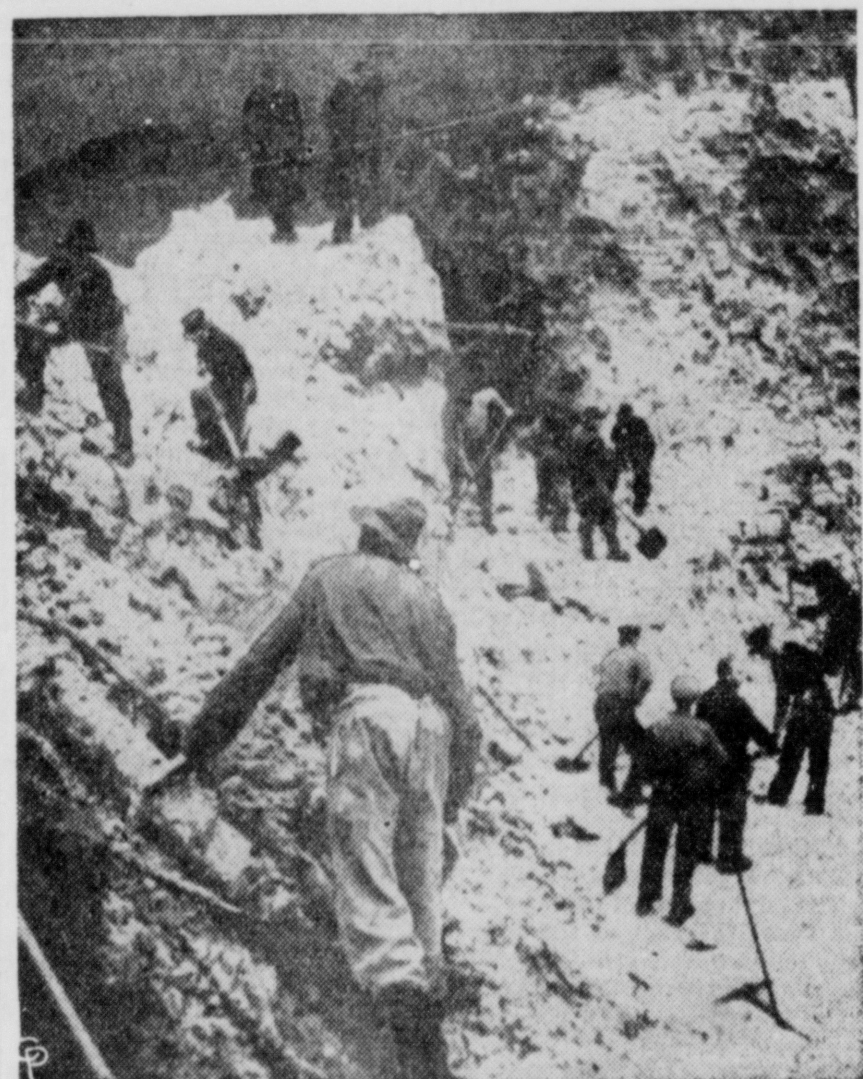

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—An engaging 25-year-old ex-steel worker, a Korean amputee veteran, is resting up today after having been saluted by President Truman as "the most important man in the United States."

Brown-haired, brown-eyed Pfc. Anthony Troilo of Norristown, Pa., was chosen as a symbol of the best the nation has to offer at the gala Very Important Persons show sponsored by the Women's National Press Club for the benefit of the USO.

President Truman, the First Lady and about 4,000 other persons including cabinet officers and top-ranking government officials gave Troilo a 10-minute standing ovation when he was wheeled onstage by Mrs. Alben Barkley, the lovely wife of the vice-president.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn was not the only one to weep unashamedly as the youngster recited the verse of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" before the standing audience.

The chorus of 300-officials on stage was drowned out as the entire audience, including the

RECLASSIFICATION HINTED

3 Million Vets To Get Review For Possible Draft

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—The House Armed Services committee today directed the Defense Department to review the draft deferments of nearly three million war veterans to determine whether they all should continue to be exempted from induction.

Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., told Assistant Defense Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg, in charge of defense manpower problems, to make the study and report back to the committee Monday.

Vinson raised the question of whether continued deferments should be given to men classed as veterans who (1) served only after V-J Day, (2) did not serve outside the United States and (3) were not in combat.

He said that all were classified as veterans, and therefore exempted by law from the draft, but pointed out all did not give the same degree of service.

VINSON SAID that the country is "greatly disturbed" because only one out of approximately 10 men in the 19 through 25 manpower pool is eligible for induction. He said the remainder are being exempted or deferred by law and regulation.

He told Mrs. Rosenberg: "Go into this thoroughly and see if we were sound in granting this large group deferments. If we were sound, we'll stand behind it, but let's see what the situation is."

Vinson also directed the Defense Department to tell the (Continued on Page Two)

Fire Levels Jackson County Courthouse

JACKSON, Jan. 26 — Jackson County was without one of its most historic landmarks today after a roaring $200,000 fire destroyed the county courthouse here.

Firefighters from neighboring Wellston and Coalton battled the stubborn blaze which was blamed on defective wiring within the three-story brick building.

Jackson residents and high school pupils who were dismissed from school, formed a chain to save many of the records of the county offices, passing them along to safety on the lawn.

County commissioners estimated the value of the building at $300,000 but said it was believed a new one would cost $750,000. Fire Chief Ed Rowland said an early estimate of the damage was "in excess of $200,000."

The courthouse was built in 1868 after Morgan's Raiders sacked and burned the original building.

Arsenal Fire Being Probed

DOVER, N. J., Jan. 26—Authorities are investigating today the cause of a flash fire that destroyed a shed of sulphur powder on Picatinny Arsenal yesterday, killing five men and injuring four others.

Picatinny is operated by the U. S. Defense Department and prior to and immediately after Pearl Harbor it probably was the nation's most heavily guarded military installation. The arsenal plant did the major part of supplying heavy ammunition to the country's armed forces.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 26 —A Southern California radio station—KMPC—boasted today that it had sold thirty seconds of silence.

J. Edward McKinley, manufacturing company official, dropped in to add $10 to the March of Dimes. But instead of asking for $10 worth of music, he asked—and got—$10 worth of complete silence.

GOP Fund Meet Opens

$1.2 Million Goal Being Discussed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — A 1951 GOP fund-raising goal of $1.2 million was laid before the Republican National Committee today—along with some ruffled feelings about how it should be spent.

Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson called the committee to meet in closed session today to consider a six-point program aimed at capturing control of Congress in 1952 and broadening the base of the Republican Party—especially in the South.

But a preliminary spat brought back some of the atmosphere which marked Gabrielson's election by a one-vote margin almost two years ago.

Both sides in the partially reopened quarrel insisted that "harmony" had been restored by free discussion in yesterday's sessions of the finance committee.

In discussing the new budget and "overlapping" of functions between the national committee and the congressional campaign committees, Gabrielson was said to have stated that he did not want to preside over the "liquidation" of his committee.

CONGRESSIONAL committee representatives drew from this the inference that Gabrielson, as they had charged in the past, wanted to take over some of their functions. They rose to the defense of their committees.

National Finance Chairman Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts said the dispute was the natural result of wanting to eliminate waste at a time when "dollars are hard to get."

Weeks did not break down the budgets for the three groups, but all were approved by the finance committee. Originally the goal had been informally set at $1.6 million, but Weeks explained this was trimmed down.

Freak Mishap Snaps Safety Mark Compiled By Local Purina Plant

Circleville's Ralston - Purina mill had a head start of about 18,000 man hours Friday on its way to establish a new world record for safety.

The local plant's record-smashing safety record was broken here Jan. 2 when a workman suffered a back injury in a freak mishap.

Up until that time, the local mill plant had established a record of 1,219,624 man hours of work without a disabling accident.

Delay in announcing the end of the record was said to have been caused when the plant asked the Ohio Industrial Commission to rule whether this actuality was a lost-time accident.

Vaden Couch, manager of the plant, said the safety mark began here Aug. 28, 1946, and continued until Jan. 2 of this year without a single disabling accident.

With its outstanding safety performance during the period, the local plant topped the old world record for milling plants by a total of 74,424 man hours. Former world safety mark for milling plants was held by General Mills plant in Buffalo, N. Y., which had rolled up a total of 1,145,200 before suffering a disabling mishap.

Canada Asks Quick Korea Cease-Fire

7-Power Parley Is Recommended

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 26—Canada proposed in the United Nations today the convoking of a seven-power conference within a week at Lake Success or New Delhi for speedy agreement on a cease-fire in Korea.

At the same time, Canada revealed its intent to support the U. S. resolution for branding Red China an aggressor and for designating the collective measures committee to look into the question of punitive steps.

Australia and New Zealand also have joined in support of the U. S. resolution. This leaves Britain alone among the Commonwealth nations at the side of India, although Sir Gladwyn Jebb, as British delegate at UN, yesterday cautiously lined up with all but the punitive steps of the U. S. resolution.

Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson, who is one of the three members of the UN cease-fire group, intervened to break the deadlock developing between the U. S. resolution and that of the Asia-Arab bloc calling for a conference with Peiping. Pearson offered no formal resolution on his proposal.

IN OUTLINING a seven-power conference, the Canadian named the U. S., Britain, France, Russia, Egypt, India and Red China as participants. But he underlined that the immediate concern of the group must be to seek a cease-fire before any other questions on the Far East are discussed.

Pearson pushed his plan further by suggesting that the seven-power conference immediately appoint a cease-fire committee consisting of the United States, Red China, the UN Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea and any member eager to join in the task of arranging the suspension of hostilities as early as possible.

The Canadian offer in effect bridged the objections voiced against the Arab-Asia proposal, which leaves out mention of the cease-fire.

Tudor To Die In Chair Tonight

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Dwight David Tudor, 28, of Columbus, must die tonight in the electric chair for the Oct. 3, 1948 slaying of 14-year-old Springfield schoolgirl, Mary Ann Page.

Governor Lausche denied executive clemency this morning to Tudor, who had two trials and one stay of execution. The governor's decision followed a recommendation by the Ohio Pardon and Parole Commission.

Chilled Ohioans Due To Shiver Over Weekend

Chilled Ohioans shivered along with millions of other Americans Friday and were warned to expect a lot more cold and cloudy weather.

It will be "not-so-cold" Saturday when the mercury tops Friday's highs by a couple of degrees, the forecaster said. But no generally warm-up is in sight and the rise in temperatures will be hardly noticeable to most Ohioans, he said. The cold spell is expected to continue over the weekend.

Friday will continue cloudy and cold with occasional snow flurries by tonight, the weatherman added. Highs will be in the mid-20s. Lows Friday night will range from 10-to-15 in the north to 20-to-25 in the southwest.

Snowfall in Ohio was greatest in Mansfield where four inches were measured. Two inches were seen in Cleveland and Youngstown and there was one inch of the white stuff in Canton, Toledo and Findlay.

The weather bureau's five-day forecast follows: "Temperatures will average eight to ten degrees below normal. Colder in all sections Sunday and continued cold through Wednesday. Frequent snow flurries with general precipitation Sunday beginning in west portions late Saturday. Total precipitation one third to one half inch."

Confession Good For The Soul

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—The 4,000-member Brooklyn Postal Employees Credit Union held a formal installation of officers last night.

Members escorted Kellner to a police station where he was charged with grand larceny.

French Ban 3 Commie Outfits

PARIS, Jan. 26—Three international Communist organizations with headquarters in Paris were ordered dissolved today by the French government.

A decree by the interior ministry bans the World Federation of Trade Unions, World Federation of Democratic Youth and International Federation of Democratic Women.

The action was seen as an intensification of the French government's "get-tough" policy toward Communists.

Move To OK Voting Rights In Ohio For 18-Year-Olds Is Given Boost

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — The proposal to give the vote to Ohio's 18-year-olds received another boost in the Ohio house of representatives today when the reference committee sent the measure to the standing committee on election.

However, Rep. Cedric Stanley (R-Warren), chairman of the elections group, said the resolution to amend the constitution would not be given a hearing this week nor probably next.

Stanley said the committee wanted to get two bills amending the election laws regarding independent candidates out of the way first.

In addition, it appeared that the action the federal Congress takes regarding the draft of 18-year-olds might have some bearing on the fate of the Ohio proposal to lower the voting age.

The proposal is in the form of a joint resolution, requiring three-fifths passage by both houses, to submit the question to the voters at the coming November election.

The two bills regarding independent candidates are to be

Bayonet Charge Claims 500 Chinese

TOKYO, Jan. 27—(Saturday)—The major hub of Suwon and its airfield were captured Friday by U. S. Eighth Army troops spearheading a surprise offensive toward South Korea's red-occupied capital of Seoul, 17 miles to the north.

The tank-paced comeback drive by United Nations forces of two American Army corps also overran the junction of Kumyangjang, 20 air miles southeast of Seoul and nine miles east of Suwon.

A Friday midnight front dispatch said more than 500 Chinese Communist troops were killed near Kumyangjang by a UN bayonet charge.

Screened by air and artillery barrages that rained death and destruction on the foe, the powerful UN assault rolled north in its second day for gains of six to ten miles along a 25-mile-wide West Korean front.

IT ENCOUNTERED stiffened enemy resistance in the center around Kumyangjang, but only little opposition along its west and east flanks on snow-covered roads leading through Suwon and Ichon up to Seoul.

The forward surge was described officially as a "limited objective attack" by "strong" tank, infantry and mobile artillery forces, but it was the biggest UN assault since the Allied retreat from North Korea began last November.

The limited offensive, cloaked in military secrecy for nearly two days, was finally announced Friday night in an Eighth Army special communique which declared:

"A LIMITED OBJECTIVE attack, not heretofore released for security reasons, jumped off at 7:30 a. m. Thursday in the western sector of the UN line."

"The attack, composed of strong elements of Maj. Gen. Frank Milburn's First Corps and Maj. Gen. John Coulter's Ninth Corps, was supported by tanks and artillery and was planned and coordinated by the two corps commanders."

"Late Thursday the attack had progressed to points forming (Continued on Page Two) erly reconnoitered by friendly patrols, generally in the Suwon-Ichon area (a 25-mile line), averaging about six miles north without encountering any major resistance.

"The friendly attacking forces buttoned up for the night on their forward positions and resumed the attack early Friday morning.

"Little ground was gained throughout Friday as resistance stiffened in the center of the attackers' line. Only minor resistance was encountered on the flanks as aggressive patrolling continued."

The first important prize won by the two-corps assault was the rail, highway and air center of Suwon, taken late Friday by west flank UN forces which then shot vanguards consider a big north of the walled city.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS Service War Correspondent Fred Waters reported from the western front at 10:14 p. m. that Suwon's valuable airport was seized before the city itself was entered. He said light UN planes already were landing at the field.

The recovery of Suwon on Korea's chief rail-highway route leading up to Seoul was termed the "most dramatic single event in the startling reversal of the war's tide" since Seoul was lost to the Chinese and North Korean invaders.

Around the junction city of Kunyangsang, nine miles east of Suwon, Waters reported that Red resistance was "stiffening."

The dispatch said that a bayonet charge by Eighth Army troops, coordinated with air and artillery bombardment, "claimed at least 500 enemy dead—all Chinese" in that area.

Suwon was entered without the firing of a shot after the air-supported UN tank and infantry assault column had routed Chinese Communist troops two miles south of the principal southern gateway to Seoul itself.

Waters reported from the scene that civilians began returning to "shattered" Suwon in large groups when enemy forces to the north launched a "heavy" 120mm mortar bombardment of the city.

The Communist mortar fire "sent troops and civilians alike to cover," the dispatch related, but the enemy fire lessened later in the afternoon and one Eighth Army patrol was "reported tonight at an undisclosed distance north of Suwon."

Waters quoted an unidentified divisional commander who led his forces into Suwon as declaring:

"We intend to hold these positions."

This indicated that the weeks of Allied hit-and-run patrol probing thrusts were at an end and a new phase of the war was beginning.

Ashville 'Con' Game Worker Now In Clinic

A rany confidence game was brought to an even zanyer finish Friday in Ashville with the identification of a 68-year-old Mansfield man.

Several months ago an elderly man arrived in Ashville, tearfully related the death of his sister and contacted Warren Bastian, funeral director in the village, about funeral arrangements.

The man's tale of woe was so impressive as he unfolded the story of his sister's death in an auto accident in Illinois that tears welled into the eyes of clerks in a nearby confectionery.

After arranging for funeral services for his "sister," the man asked the funeral director if an Ashville bank would cash a check. It did. For $50.

Then, stating business in Circleville as reason for departure, the man asked the director where he might buy a raincoat for the trip. Bastian offered the man his own raincoat. He took it.

The man, the $50 and the raincoat then promptly faded out of the picture.

RECENTLY, a man identified as Ray Robert Bradford, 68, of Mansfield, was arrested for a series of similar confidence operations.

Ashville residents positively identified the man from a photograph shown them. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said.

Bradford, who worked the "con" game, was found to have faked the confession of murder and, while in jail in Mansfield on a forgery indictment, attempted to commit suicide.

A panel of three doctors found the man to be insane, and he has been committed to Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

2 Civil Lawsuits Are Heard In County Court

Two civil lawsuits were heard before petit juries in Pickaway County common pleas court Thursday.

In a suit to set aside the will in the Howard Irwin estate the jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendants, Ward Peck, executor of the estate, and Ohio Masonic Home.

The suit was filed by Charles Irwin, Mary Rittenour, Pauline Mariwether, Marion Anderson and Maxine Irwin.

The will commands the executor to sell the property of the estate and invest the net proceeds in U. S. government bonds to be delivered to trustees of Ohio Masonic Home in Springfield.

In addition the will stipulates that one-half the income from the investment is to go to a brother, Charles Irwin of Cincinnati and the remaining half to a niece, Mary Rittenour of Montgomery, Ala.

In the second case heard Thursday a jury found in favor of the plaintiff, Anthony F. Dattalo, who filed a damage action against Jack Ousley. The suit arose out of a two-truck collision on Route 23 about four miles north of Circleville on Oct. 4, 1949.

Plaintiff's petition asked a judgment of $1,200. The jury set the amount of recovery at $800.

Rotary Club Presents Its New Quintet

A new singing group made its initial appearance at the Thursday luncheon meeting of Circleville Rotary Club in Elks dining room.

Vaden Couch, in charge of the program, presented a vocal quintet consisting of Carl Leist, Ray Friend, Kenneth Hill, Frank Barnhill Jr. and Art McCoard, which, according to Couch was called together very hurriedly to replace a speaker that didn't show.

After only a few notes of the first song it was evident that this was a 'fix', that the five men had rehearsed many times for their part of the program.

They sang several numbers and the program was concluded by the entire group joining with the quintet in singing, "Home On the Range."

Bell Jingles Prove False

Circleville's fire alarm bell atop City Hall let loose several peals early Friday but persons who listened for the drone of the fire engine siren went unrewarded.

Reason for the wayward peals was that linemen, making line changes on Mingo street, apparently shorted the alarm wiring several times, causing the bell to ring.

Burglars Enter Monroe School, Get About $300

Monroe Township school at Five Points was broken into early Friday and an estimated $300 in cash was stolen.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the schoolhouse was entered through a door leading into the gymnasium.

The sheriff said the burglars broke out a pane of glass in the door, then flipped the latch to enter.

After reaching the inside of the building, the burglars broke open several files and removed money from funds being collected for the March of Dimes, cafeteria and class pictures.

tests, putting men into service first, and determining then whether they are "adaptable" as soldiers."

The committee also is considering drafting non-veterans who were married after the U. S. entered the Korean war last June 27.

While the committee wrestled with the problem of increasing the draft pool of eligible men, the Defense Department and Selective Service put a brake on the rush of draft-eligible college men to recruiting offices.

Orders were issued permitting students to pick their branch of service and then obtain a "postponement of induction" until the end of the school year.

An influential committee source disclosed that the draft of post-Korea husbands, along with other moves, was under consideration in the hope that enough men could be obtained for a 3.5-million-man armed forces without the drafting of 18-year-olds.

THE SPOKESMAN emphasized that this represents one of several plans being studied to increase the number of draft-eligible men in the 19 through 25 age group. Whether the committee will adopt such a plan is problematical.

If it did, it would probably write into the administration's manpower legislation a provision that men who married after June 27, 1950, shall, for purpose of the draft, be considered single and subject to induction.

Only single non-veterans aged 19 through 25 are now being called up by Selective Service.

In the last war, men who married after Dec. 7, 1941, date of the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor, were taken when the pool of single men became exhausted and before other married, non-fathers were called up. Still later in the war, fathers with children conceived after the Pearl Harbor attack were called up before other fathers.

'Tag Day' Set For Saturday To Aid Polio Fund

A "tag day" program to collect funds for the Pickaway County March of Dimes campaign will be held Saturday on the streets of Circleville.

The "tag day" will be conducted by Circleville Girl Scout troops, directed by Mrs. Edwin Jury.

Ed Amey, campaign manager for the campaign, said the girls will sell metal spangles on the streets beginning at 9 a. m. Saturday and continuing until 5 p. m.

"Tag day" is an annual program for the local March of Dimes campaign, usually netting about $100 for the fund.

Amey said that a total of only $1,349.48 had been collected for this year's fund as of noon Friday. Goal for the 1951 drive is $5,000. Last year's drive with the same goal netted only $3,500.

In addition to the "tag day," a Circleville restaurant plans to turn its entire proceeds taken in during an eight-hour period to the fund.

Amey said the Mecca restaurant has promised its entire proceeds from 6:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. Tuesday for the fund.

The 1951 drive will end officially Wednesday, although collections will be made during special public programs in February, Amey said.

"We couldn't want it to go any better," Weidinger added.

The procession of donors for the first 1951 visit of the Bloodmobile was led by Circleville Mayor Thurman I. Miller. A total of 144 pints is to be collected.

allow for wage boosts of ten percent since the outbreak of the Korean war, the general pattern in the auto, steel, coal and other fields. Workers who have not received such a boost ultimately will be able to bargain for increases to that extent.

THE PRICE FREEZE is designed to last until the office of price stabilization can work out ceiling prices on individual items on an industry-by-industry basis.

DiSalle said the price order will involve some rollbacks but declined to specify the rollback date.

His agency Thursday ordered hide prices rolled back to the highest level between last Nov. 1 and Nov. 30 to prevent threatened shoe price increases.

But there was no indication that officials are considering any such "extensive rollback in the general price freeze order."

Good Samaritan Injured In City Hall Accident

An Ashville Route 2 man suffered a dislocated left elbow in Circleville late Thursday while playing the role of the "Good Samaritan."

He is James Brumfield, 37, who was treated in Berger hospital at about 9 p. m. Thursday for a dislocation involving both bones of the forearm at the elbow.

Brumfield reportedly had found an older man lying near the street and had accompanied the man, reportedly intoxicated, into Circleville police station.

It was while aiding the officer on duty in an effort to carry the man to a safe place in the basement of City Hall that Brumfield was injured.

Brumfield suffered the mishap when the older man fell back against him, jamming his arm into a hard object. Brumfield was treated in the hospital and returned to his home.

JESUS --- THE GREAT TEACHER

HE TALKED TO HIS LISTENERS IN PARABLES

Scripture—Mark 3:13-34.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WHAT MAKES a great teacher? He (or she) should have what we call a magnetic personality—that is one that attracts people and makes them want to listen to what is said.

A good teacher must make the thing he is talking about interesting enough to hold his listeners' attention; he must draw pictures in their minds, so to speak—make them see the things of which he speaks.

He may tell stories to illustrate the points he makes. Above all, he must be a sincere person who believes in what he is teaching, and he must be interested in the people to whom he is talking so that they can feel the warmth of his personality and be the more willing to listen and able to believe the truths he tells.

Jesus had all of these qualities. He was kindly and gentle, but firm. He believed so much in His mission and message, that He was willing to antagonize the most influential people of His day in order to tell the multitudes not stand," he told them.

Then Jesus warned them that they were blaspheming, and that for that sin against the Holy Ghost there was no forgiveness. Jesus also proclaimed at this time that He no longer considered His mother and other members of His family as closer to Him than others. He had been told that His mother and brethren were without, seeking Him.

"And He looked round about on them which sat about Him, and said, Behold My mother and My brethren."

So eager were the people generally to hear the Master, that when He went again to the seaside they followed Him in droves. The beach was so crowded that Jesus entered a boat and taught the multitude from there. Here He began to illustrate His teaching with parables.

He said a sower went out to sow; some of the seed fell by the wayside and was eaten up by the birds, some fell on stony ground where they began to grow, but not finding enough earth in about it. People "listened to Him gladly."

Going up into a mountain, Jesus called those He wished to be His fellow-workers to Him. There He called the twelve, and ordained them to preach His word. They also were given the power to heal sicknesses and to cast out devils.

After that Jesus and the twelve went to a house, but the multitudes came to them in such numbers that they were not even able to eat.

Opposition to Jesus was growing. Some scribes who had come down from Jerusalem said "He hath Beelzebub, and by the prince of the devils casteth he out devils."

It seems impossible that anyone who had seen the Saviour, beheld the work He had done among the poor and afflicted; and heard His words, could ever think that He was in league with the devil.

Jesus called these men to Him and said, "How can Satan cast out Satan?" He pointed out that if Satan was working against himself, his kingdom couldn't last. "And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom can-which to develop roots, when the sun came up they withered and died.

Some seed fell among weeds, that smothered them. However, some fell on good, rich soil, and they grew and flourished and produced fruit abundantly.

Most of His listeners doubtless lost the point of the story—just as children and young people in high school and college often hear what is said but it makes no impression on them.

Others grasp a part, but other things seeming more important to them, they forget the message; or they allow other matters to crowd them out of their minds, as the weeds smothered the plant.

However, others doubtless remembered what Jesus had said and tried to learn the lesson He would have taught them.

The apostles, however, were fortunate. When they were alone with their Master they asked Him the parable's meaning, and He explained it to them.

"And with many such parables spake He the word unto them, as they were able to hear it... and when they were alone, He expounded all things to His disciples."

Yankee Seeks English Bride

WINCHESTER, Eng., Jan. 26.—L. C. Trent, of Loveland, Ohio, has asked Mayor S. R. Evans of Winchester to find him an English wife because he said the average American girl is "so spoiled and requires so much."

Evans said that Trent's conditions were:

The bride must be between 19 and 35, have at least a high school education, be attractive, be able to wear good-looking clothes, and weigh not more than 130 pounds.

Previously married Trent, who has a son aged 13, said he could offer a luxury home, two cars, an airplane, and funds from "a fair income."

Teen Tips

Remember the column recently with a letter from a girl who wears glasses? She wrote that glasses seemed to be a disadvantage in the date department of her life and we agreed that sometimes a girl's date rating develops a little more slowly if she wears glasses, but as she and her boy friends mature, glasses are no barrier to romance.

Now comes an i- - letter from a girl who believes it's silly to do anything about glasses if you wear them—except forget 'em. She reports that she wears 'em and she's quite a girl, glasses and all.

"For your information," she writes, "I was elected Valentine Queen for the year 1949 in our city. Also, I have never found it impossible to get a date with even the most popular boys."

"I'm going to be married soon and I will wear an ivory satin gown and all the 'trimmings'—and my glasses. The man I am going to marry was elected one of the ten typical college students in the United States. Incidentally, I had the glasses on when I met him."

"My 16-year-old sister has worn glasses for 15 of her 16 years and I can't recall when she lacked dates."

"In closing, may I say that according to statistics, eight out of ten persons today wear glasses at some time or another during their lifetime."

"I would appreciate a personal reply to this letter, but, if you wish, you may present it to your readers in your column." For help with personal problems write to Elinor Williams at this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FRIDAY PARLEY AWAITED

Indiana GOP Chief's Views Mirror Party's Attitude

Editor's Note: When the Republican National Committee meets in Washington today to plan strategy for the 1952 presidential campaign, the opinions of Indiana Committeeman Ralph F. Gates will be eagerly sought because Indiana scored the greatest gain in GOP congressmen in the 1950 election. In the following article, the former Hoosier governor outlines his views on foreign and domestic issues.

By RALPH F. GATES

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 26 — I believe that the result of the election last Fall demonstrates that the people of Indiana and of the nation are opposed to the present foreign policy of President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson.

In Indiana, we Republicans succeeded with a slashing attack on these international policies. We reelected a U.S. senator overwhelmingly and increased the number of GOP congressmen from four to nine, the largest gain of all the states.

THIS DOES NOT mean we are isolationists. It does mean that we believe in protecting the U.S. first. Winston Churchill is one of the few great statesmen of the world—and he always believes in protecting England first.

I feel that Congress will now assert itself and insist upon its right to pass upon all foreign questions confronting our nation. This applies particularly to the extent of our participation in the rearming of Europe, and the number of armed units that we will send to Europe. Certainly, Congress will insist upon our allies in Europe demonstrating their willingness to prepare themselves before the U.S. commits itself to full scale European participation.

We are entitled to know the strength and numbers of our allies before pouring more money into the hands of the European allies.

The 1952 election is not in the bag for the Republicans and it will require a tremendous amount of grass-root work to bring the issues to the people. The Republican course should be one of caution.

There is no doubt that the results of the last election were determined largely by the ill-advised Korean police effort.

The people of America realized that this was a full-scale war in which we were engaged, and one that had never been authorized by Congress. The people also realized that we were not prepared for the type and scale of war in which we were plunged.

TO ENGAGE NOW in a European effort without the full support of our allies in Europe would be disastrous, we should not be called upon to do more than our share in such an endeavor, and then only when we are convinced that our allies are in earnest in their effort and are willing to shoulder their full share of the task.

No foreign effort should be made at the cost of adequate defense at home. The people of America are alarmed over world conditions but we feel that our first objective should be to build adequately our own defenses in America and have sufficient equipment and trained men to guarantee that no foreign force can invade America.

The staggering debt of the nation and the tremendous expenditures asked for adequate defense make it all the more important that our dollars be wisely spent. Many departments can stand larger reductions in their appropriations.

The people also have demonstrated by their votes that they want no part of socialized medicine or federal aid to education. The people want to return to a balanced budget. The coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats, now so powerful, should bend every effort to balance the budget. We dare not increase our national debt.

The people want a safe, sane, conservative America rather than one that still believes that our resources are inexhaustible, that we can continue to pour the billions to Europe and the world, and that the taxpayers of America will continue to foot the bill.

The Louisiana Purchase almost doubled the size of the United States.

Cuba is the largest island of the West Indies.

Machinery Fixup Said Defense Aid

Farmers Urged To Plan Repairs

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — Two Ohio agricultural leaders today called for early repairing of machinery "part of farm work in defense plans."

Director C. M. Ferguson of the Agricultural Extension Service and Dale Williams, chairman of the Ohio PMA committee, pointed out that farm products are "essential anytime."

National emergency plans make it important for farmers "to do even more carefully what they have been doing all the time," they agreed.

Williams said a few hours invested in planning repairs now may pay dividends in the form of uninterrupted field work when spring comes.

He pointed out that new machinery production may be reduced some. Present national plans would remove 25 percent of all steel and iron and 40 percent of other metals from civilian production. "Labor will be short in repair shops as well as on farms," he added, so plenty of time will be needed for replacing worn or broken machinery parts.

FERGUSON AND Williams agreed there probably will be some cut-back even in manufacture of repairs. If orders for repairs are placed early, manufacturers and defense planners "will know better just how many and what kind of repairs will be needed," they said.

"Remember last fall when machinery was stored? If something was wrong then, now is the time to get parts—numbers of needed repairs—and order them," Williams commented.

That reminded the PMA chair-

9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate.

Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month. Except that now paid for cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951.

10. In consideration of above, this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows:

No proposals for changes in rates of pay, rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees, parties hereto, within a period of three years from October 1, 1950, except such proposals which may be initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however, that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy, workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called annual improvement increases, the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952, to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for employees covered by this agreement are justified, in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be, and the effective date thereof. The carrier representatives shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote.

11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision.

The usual protections for arbitrators, miscellaneous rates, special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.

The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates, rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement.

LUSH PREMIUMS PROMISED

Angus Group Opens Major Drive To Aid Youngsters

The South-Central Angus Breeders Association met in Circleville this week and, after a routine election of officers, launched one of the most impressive promotion campaigns this county has seen among livestock groups.

One observer at the meeting declared that "if this county's youth is not Angus conscious by next Fall, then there is no hope for the pure-bred beef men at all."

The following officers were elected for 1951: President, C. D. McPeck of West Jefferson; vice-president, William Wilson of Pleasantville; and secretary-treasurer, Larry A. Best of Circleville.

Directors elected for two years were Jesse Hagler of Bloomingburg and Charles Rose of Williamsport. Directors for one year were Hewitt Cromley of Ashville, Dick Huffines of Williamsport and Russell Eversole of Baltimore.

Cromley was elected as 1951 sales manager with Huffines as assistant.

THE ANNUAL South-Central Breeders sale will be held on Pickaway Fairgrounds the last of September. This annual event has been held in conjunction with the Pickaway County Fair for the last few years.

In order to get Spring calves ready to sell and animals from some of the show herds, it was deemed advisable to hold the sale at a later date.

While this move means that the local county fair will lose one of its major junior livestock attractions, the late September separate Angus sale will be larger and with better-grade animals.

In order to stimulate interest in 4-H and FFA work, the group went all-out to sponsor a seven-county 4-H-FFA Angus breeding show. The show is to be held in conjunction with the Fairfield County Fair.

The seven-county area of the South-Central Association is Pickaway, Franklin, Madison, Fayette, Ross, Hocking and Fairfield.

More than $500 in premium money has been pledged by the association as premium money for this special show.

The Angus breeders said they are willing to spend this kind of money to sponsor a show of this kind because:

1. They realize boys and girls are the breeders of tomorrow.
2. They are interested in helping promote high quality Angus breeding projects.
3. They want to help in motivating boys and girls to do a good job in selection, feeding, management, fitting and showing of animals.
4. They want young folks to know they are backing them.

ANY 4-H CLUB or FFA boy or girl in the seven-county area that has Angus breeding animals as a part of a project program in possession on or before April 1 is eligible to participate in this special show.

Pickaway County boys and girls will have some real premium money to shoot for in their local Angus show in connection with the fair this year. The association pledged money and set up the following premium list for 4-H and FFA members with Angus female projects:

First place, $75; second place, $50; third place, $35; fourth place, $25; fifth place, $15; and sixth to 15th places, $10 each.

This will be for a special female Angus class. Pickaway County has about 40 outstanding Angus cattle in FFA and 4-H work at the present time.

This contribution of $300 for a special showing of projects is designed to stimulate still more interest in good beef breeding projects, the Angus men declared.

The association will hold its next meeting the last of February, at which time outstanding 4-H and FFA members and county agents in the seven-county area will be guests of the association.

State Welfare Chief To Check Wooster Dispute

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — State Welfare Director J. H. Lamneck went to the Apple Creek hospital near Wooster today armed with every bit of information he could muster to help answer critics who had raised the possibility of maladministration at the institution.

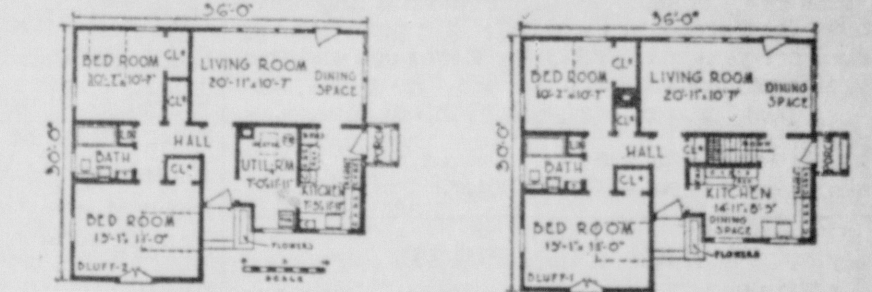

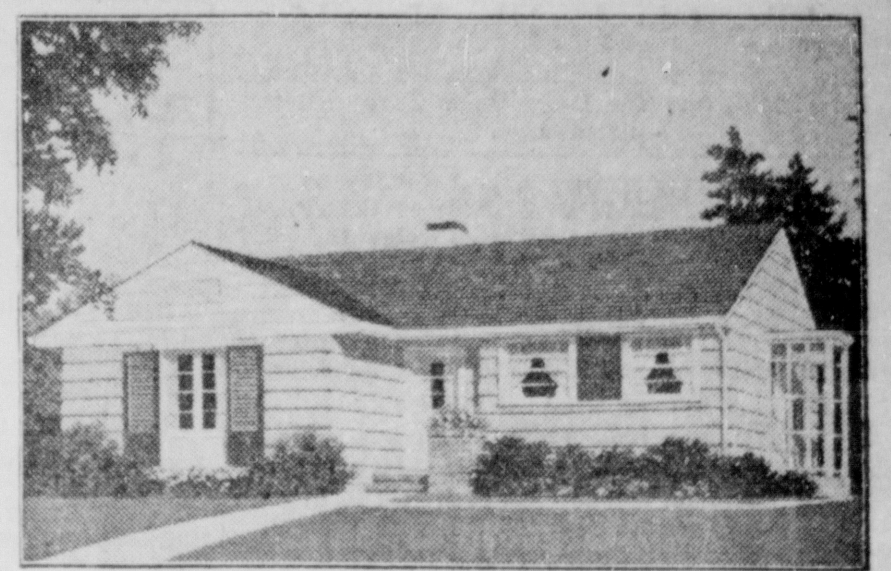

Lamneck's announced purpose of the visit was to acquaint state legislators with the welfare department's mental health program. Accompanying him was Dr. Calvin L. Baker, mental hygiene commissioner.

However, Lamneck's office staff said he took with him the complete file on an investigation into the alleged mistreatment of an Apple Creek patient, Dr. Jean Douglas, a widely known Wooster physician.

Eleven Wooster fraternal and civic organizations telegraphed Governor Lausche Tuesday requesting "an unbiased investigation... into the conditions existing at Apple Creek state hospital prior to and since the Dec. 7, 1950, incident regarding Dr. Douglas."

The organizations also asked the governor to withhold transfer of Dr. Robert Reddick, clinical director at Apple Creek, until the investigation was completed.

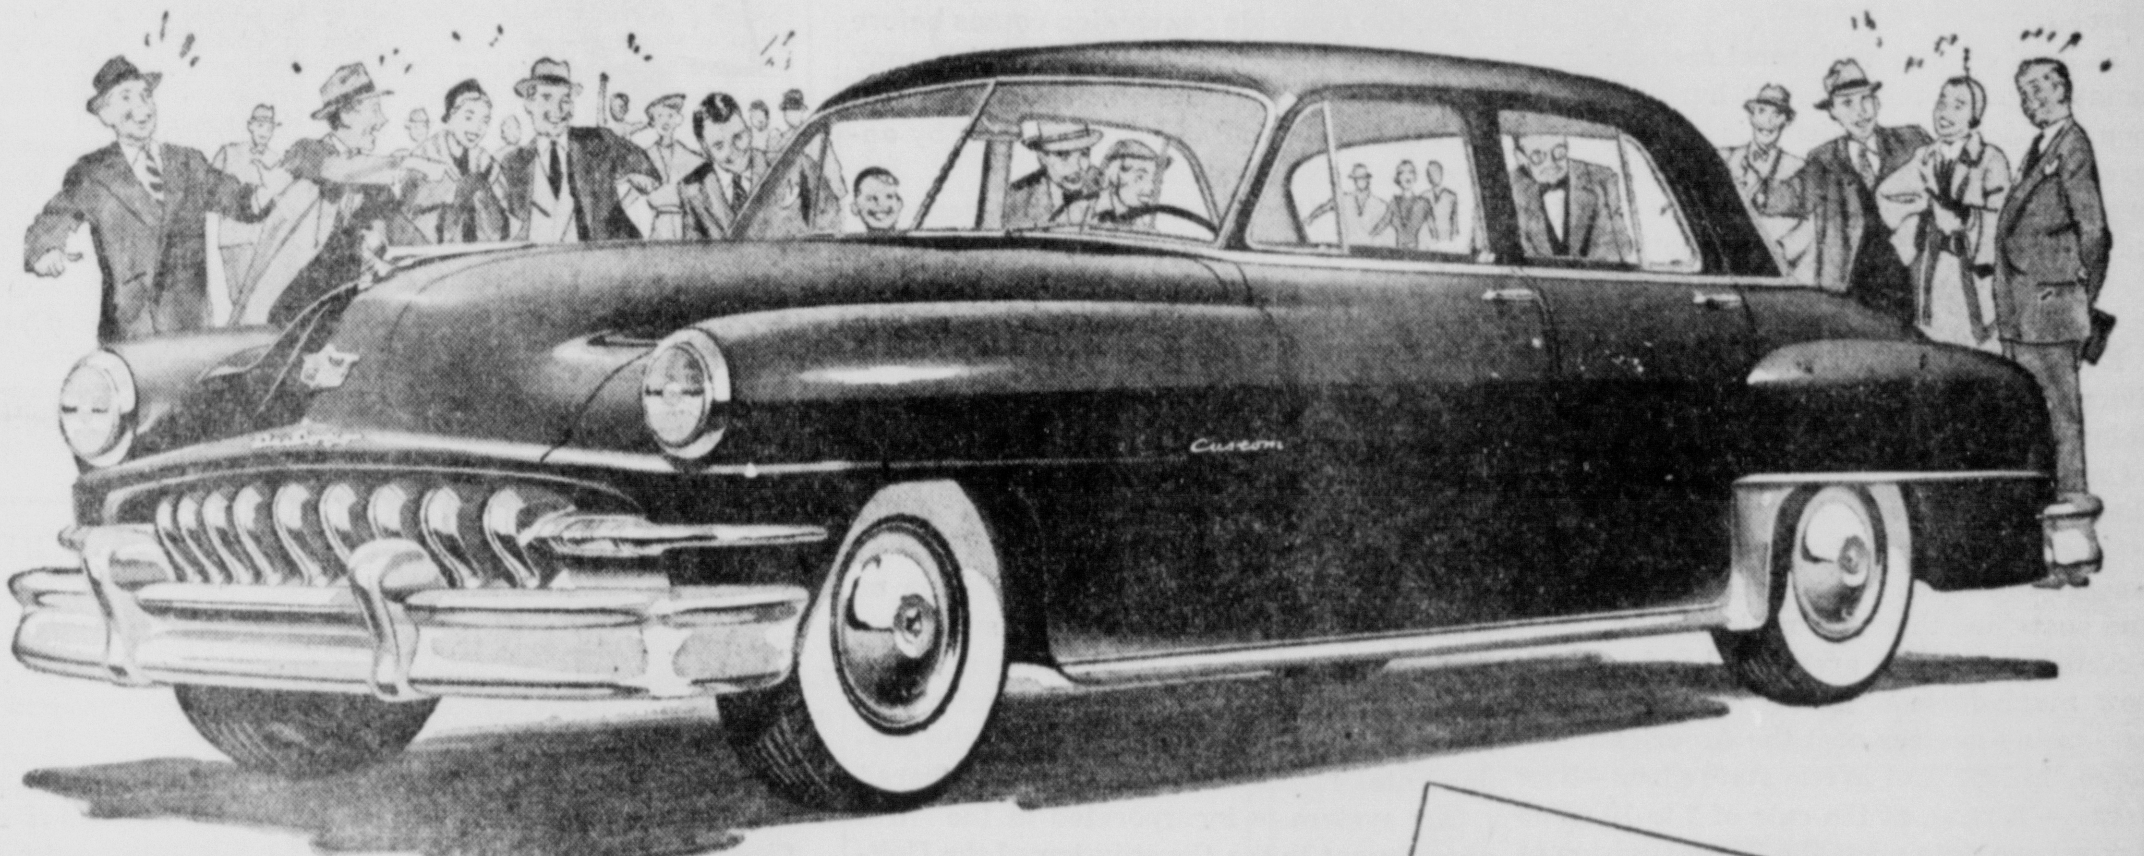

The governor wrote the organizations Wednesday expressing his complete confidence in Lamneck's ability to handle the situation.

Hospital Plan Being Voted By Clevelanders

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26—Members of the Academy of Medicine of Cleveland are being asked today to approve a medical plan which would provide complete medical insurance for families earning $5,000 a year or less.

The plan, which would also provide partial coverage for families earning more than $5,000 annually, will go into effect when approved by a sufficient number of the 1,621 active members of the academy.

If enough contracts are received from members, the plan will be sold only to families with Cleveland Hospital Service Association contracts.

According to an outline sent to the doctors, approval of the plan by 51 percent of the academy's membership would mean that complete professional care in hospitals would be made available to all Greater Clevelanders at a cost of less than 15 cents a day.

WHY THEY FIGHT

APPARENTLY the lectures given on citizenship to the armed services in their period of basic training are to be abandoned. This is because many of the trainees did not absorb them, perhaps didn't try, but left a lecture with not much more than the memory of a few apothegms too easily forgotten.

As a substitute for this ineffectiveness Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is sponsor for a system of citizenship training for the more than 3,000,000 men and women soon to be in the services. This will involve the study of not difficult manuals, soon to be in preparation, and actual class teaching.

"By a number of comparatively simple techniques" not used to any considerable extent in schools or armed services, it is felt that basic truths of citizenship can be instilled in all. Then the service man knows how valuable his heritage is, and what it is he may be fighting for.

Such a study as this, which will be correlated with an exposition in the manuals of the international situation and how it came about can be of vast worth if ably administered. It should, of course, include a chapter on the new deal's part in fostering communism in this country and abroad.

Love of country with most seems almost innate, and is the greatest hurdle for the one worlders. Patriotism is one of the greatest words in the language, but when it is justly appealed to, the response ought to be as understanding as it is emotional.

FRAUD AT THE SCALES

EVERYBODY knows what the cost of living and taxes—hidden and visible—are doing to the family's battered budget. Not so many realize there's another drain on the family resources that's big, illicit and concealed. Gyps who engage in short weight and measure practice systematic and sustained thievery on the public.

Authentic figures aren't on hand to show how much false or faulty weighing and measuring devices cost the American consumer in 1950. But in one state alone—New Jersey—it runs, at the rate of 2 to 10 cents a purchase, into what the State Division of Weights and Measures calls "a staggering sum." Last year state inspectors tracked down more than 10,000 violations, but even so chiseling is on the increase.

Hardships perpetrated by such frauds fall heaviest, of course, on the victimized consumer. But they extend as well to honest dealers who form the majority.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Until it is decided what is to become of the United Nations, a halt should be called to some of the curious activities of that body.

For instance, a commission or something of the UN is now engaged in defining the press. From what I can see of it, most of the efforts are designed to place limitations upon freedom of the press.

What most Americans forget is that the United Nations can lawfully legislate for the American people. A United Nations decision is binding upon us under the treaty which makes us a member of that body. Even should we vote against a measure, but not employ the veto, we are bound to adhere to it, if it is approved by the other members. In cases that have come before our courts, they have so held, as in the California alien land law case in 1948 (Oyama v. California).

The California land law may or may not be wrong, but California should make her laws, not the United Nations. In fact, by virtue of the treaty, the United Nations has a wider power over our states than the Constitution gives to Congress.

So, that amazing universal declaration of human rights can be destructive of our way of life, because we balance obligations against rights. For instance, take Article 25 of that document:

"Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself and of his family, including food, clothing, housing, and medical care and necessary social services, and the right to security."

Does that mean that we are to establish a socialist society in which every person is a slave to the state which levels all of us down to a minimum subsistence provided by the state?

And what are the obligations of the citizen to the state? No reference is made to that. It could be total and abject obedience. So, the genocide convention comes before us again. This is a measure which may have much justification. Its inspiration was the wiping out of whole peoples by antagonistic governments.

Whatever the intentions of the genocide convention, however noble its motives, it would be possible under it for the United Nations to intervene in any state of our country on the assumption that the rights of a racial or a religious group were endangered.

Take, for instance, this provision in the covenant on human rights, which could become the law of our land:

"Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs shall be subject only to such limitations as are pursuant to law and are reasonable and necessary to protect public safety, order, health, or morals or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others."

Our system is incorporated in the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which provides:

"Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Death and Letters

SYNOPSIS

Was Glendon Coldfield a suicide or was he murdered by a member of his very conservative and literary family, to conceal a family scandal? That is the question which the victim's widow, Sylvia Coldfield, asks bibliophile-detective Henry Gamadge to answer. Gamadge plans a bold strategy to rescue Sylvia from the family surveillance under which she is literally held prisoner. In the misty old shop of J. Hall, collector of rare books and letters, Gamadge turns up a clue which may prove motive for the Coldfield murder. With his trusted friend, Harold, Gamadge drives from New York to the Coldfield Hudson valley home. They find the family assembled at dinner. Getting into the house by means of a ruse, Gamadge "smashes" Sylvia as she flies out of the dining room. They drive back to Gamadge's apartment, where Mrs. Gamadge promises to look after Sylvia.

CHAPTER TEN

THERE was a drugstore on Harold's corner. Harold drew up at the curb, and Gamadge got out and went in. He called The Maples; there was no waiting at the other end of the wire. A man's angry, frightened voice rasped: "Yes, who is it?"

"Am I speaking to Mr. Ira Coldfield?"

"Yes. Who is this?"

"A friend of your sister-in-law's. I wanted to tell you that she's—"

The voice shouted at him, "Are you one of the fellows that got into my house on false pretenses and got a sick woman out of the house and took her away in a car?"

"Would you call it an abduction?"

"You got into my house—the cops—"

"Your servants had nothing to do with it, Mr. Coldfield."

"I know that. You got in by fraud, I—"

"We were there by invitation. Isn't Mrs. Glendon part owner now? But let's not waste time discussing that kind of thing. We're quite ready to go to court if you are—produce her at any time. She has an excellent lawyer, and I'm sure Dalgren would testify. But you know your sister-in-law well enough to know that she dislikes publicity as much as you do—that's why we had to use the methods you say you object to, though I should think you'd be grateful for them."

"Does anybody want publicity in such a case?" growled Ira Coldfield. "I say you'll regret this bitterly—she was under a doctor's care."

"Not being mad ourselves, we—her friends—are quite willing to bank on Mrs. Coldfield's sanity. My idea is to come up there tomorrow and have an informal talk about the whole thing; and pick up some luggage for her, you know," said Gamadge amiably.

There was a silence, then a faint mumbling, and then a different voice—Ames Coldfield's—came thinly over the wire:

"This is Ames Coldfield speaking. Mrs. Glendon Coldfield's older brother-in-law."

"Yes, Mr. Coldfield?"

"Any friend of Sylvia's will be well received in our house, sir, and I wish that you had realized it before."

Gamadge couldn't help laughing. He said, "There seemed to be a little trouble about issuing the invitations."

"How I should love to know the procedure; but let's maintain a civilized approach, since you seem to be a civilized man."

"Thank you."

"The whole thing hinges on points of view—on what we thought and what you think about my sister-in-law's mental condition. You realize that, of course?"

"Mrs. Glendon Coldfield realizes that. She makes out a case for you."

"Of course she would. Sylvia is always fair—except where her delusions are concerned. Surely you can see that we would prefer to keep them in the family? Until she had abandoned them? But I agree with you, a conference is always best. No lawyers, of course?"

He giggled.

"Only myself."

"Er—you are not one, by any chance?"

"Oh, no. A reputable lawyer wouldn't have used our methods." Ames giggled again. "I'm glad you admit so much! Well, then: my brother is very much occupied, and tomorrow he won't be able to get away from his office and up here until shortly after six. Can you be here at six? We feel that it would be more satisfactory to have our whole family present at the conference, and three of us would have to make a special trip to town for it, and—the giggle was prolonged—"you know the way."

"I'll be there. If you'll just get a bag or two packed for your sister-in-law?"

"I promise it."

Gamadge came back to the car. Mrs. Coldfield was still asleep, and Harold standing on the curb beside her window. He and Gamadge exchanged goodnights, and Gamadge drove off.

Clara said that Mrs. Coldfield probably ought to go straight to bed, that she had every reason to be a wreck. Mrs. Coldfield said that she had slept in the car and wasn't at all tired, and that she wouldn't be able to close an eye until she had told Gamadge all about it—she owed him that, at least. Gamadge said that he wouldn't be able to close an eye until he'd heard.

"But don't let that influence you," he added. "Sometimes I don't close an eye anyway."

They were in the office, which had once been the Gamadge family drawing-room; a high, long room, with a white moulded ceiling and a white mantel, beneath which a fire burned. Mrs. Coldfield's dark-blue eyes were fixed on his face; she nodded silently.

Of course, Bing has four boys working now, but it will take them a few years to really get in the higher brackets. The 13-year-old has made only $200,000 so far and he's working for a year.

Still their little taxes will help. The Treasury figures $50,000 here, $50,000 there and first thing you know they've got enough to be billions short of what they intended to ask for next time.

William Lyon Phelps, who delivered an average of one hundred paid lectures every season, also made a number of appearances "on the cuff" at church bazaars, benefits, and the like.

In one courtesy appearance at a New Haven church, Dr. Phelps had the audience in stitches with some choice anecdotes, then begged reporters present not to include them in printed reports of the meeting.

"I'll be using these stories all season," he explained, "and it would take the edge off them if they appeared in print."

The reporters respected his entreaty. One, in fact, wound up an extremely complimentary review with the statement, "Dr. Phelps punctuated his remarks with a number of hilarious stories that cannot be published here."

Feed the Land ...it will feed you

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Paul Magloire

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti—You sit here on the veranda of the pink and cream St. Francis hotel, two thousand feet above sea level, with voodoo land stretched out below you for 50 miles, and you reflect on the old truism that sometimes it seems what interests people most are other people.

This is a land of incredible beauty—lush, tangled forests, rolling mountains in the distance, the air headily soft and fresh in the morning sunlight, flowers spilling along the roadsides and the blue ocean far away like a misty dream—and of violent poverty, yet when you sit at your typewriter here on the St. Francis veranda, it is the people you have met in the past few days who come back to you.

It was a few days (or a hundred years?) ago that you left LaGuardia Field at midnight and, after flying south for an hour, looked idly out the window from Seat 23 and saw the No. 4 propeller ominously motionless.

Presently, the pilot noticed it also and back you turned to LaGuardia on three motors, to transfer to a new plane. "Ahh," says George Mourra, next to you in Seat 32, "now I can buy insurance. I forgot before. Now I will get $25,000 insurance, make my girl friend in Washington the beneficiary, and I can die happy."

George Mourra, it develops, is of Palestinian stock—"Arabic, I guess"—and is not yet 22. He was born in Haiti, where his father is a big importer, lived for a time in South America and now has again been living in Port-au-Prince for 12 years.

Except for the last few, which were spent at Bordentown Military academy in New Jersey, at Duquesne university in Pittsburgh, and in Washington, where George Mourra has a girl friend named Helen Conroy.

George is an obliging soul, but since he is 22 and since he is going away from Washington rather than toward it, our conversations often begin with Haiti and end with Helen Conroy.

"DO NOT, PLEASE, BE TRAPPED into attending voodoo dances," George Mourra says. "They are the bunk. For any tourist who has an odd dollar, the natives will stage 'voodoo.' It is less than nothing." On we talk, until six hours have passed, and the clipper plane sets down in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where we learn with dismay we have missed the connecting plane to Haiti. You chalk up one debit mark to Pan-Am, which has many credit marks with us.

It is just as well. You climb into a British West Indies plane in a couple of hours and, as George Mourra goes into a fitful sleep, full of visions of the beautiful Helen Conroy, you fall to talking with hostess Molly O'Donnell, who looks pure, lovely Irish but who says she is mongrel.

Trujillo in the Dominican Republic slips by below as Molly O'Donnell talks about a ski instructor in Massachusetts ("tell me all you can, please, about this place") and about her dreams of one day coming to New York.

You tell Molly you own New York, thus taking on tremendous stature in her eyes, and presently you launch into a discussion of life and love, during which Molly explains patiently why so many young girls these days are fast and loose. Molly is 19, looks 16 and talks like 40. Ski instructors often are lucky.

At Port-au-Prince, verdant and spellbinding in the late afternoon, Jacques takes over. Jacques is to be your chauffeur, and it develops that piloting his new car around mountain-road corners on two wheels is not his only talent.

Dark and somber and philosophical, Jacques is a thinker. In words of one syllable—bruisé and shattered English words—he discusses his land and the coming administration of Paul Magloire, the native who is Haiti's first president elected by the people.

"WELL," SAYS JACQUES, "WE WILL GIVE HIM A CHANCE. We will see. Something have to be done about this country. Four million people there are here. Twenty-five thousand, maybe, live first class. The others—nothing."

"Sixty cents a day is average wage. No—what do you say?—overtime. This is bad. If there is revolt, you can see why, cannot you?" You say you can, indeed.

Jacques then talks enthusiastically of Daniel Fignole, who heads the Mouvement Ouvrier Payan, or People's party, and who has just been elected député. "Likely our next president," Jacques says, happily.

You have heard ugly rumors that M. Fignole—who clearly, from demonstrations, is Haiti's most popular man—has tendencies of the pink, and as Jacques explains the many things M. Fignole has promised, the story sounds old and sad and familiar. There is little use in discussing M. Fignole with Jacques. He has offered the moon. "You know," you tell Jacques, as the car's headlights sweep the steep road near the mountaintop, and you see the endless streams of black women walking down from the farmlands, their baskets on their heads, "you ought to come to New York. We can use good drivers." Jacques looks around, melancholy.

"No," he says. "They tell me no. They tell me, I come to New York, you and I cannot talk like we talk now." He looks at himself and then at you. "You light, I dark. In New York, we cannot talk."

You tell him no, no, he is wrong, as you go up the mountainside in the night, but you think sadly there still are places in America where he dark, you light, no can talk.

County Girl Scout Chiefs Review Last Year, Make Plans For Coming Program

Committees Are Named

Officials of Pickaway County Girl Scout Association held their annual meeting Wednesday evening to review past accomplishments and to take a look into the future.

Various standing committees gave reports and certain officers were elected for the coming year.

The meeting, held in headquarters in Circleville First Methodist church, was chaired by Mrs. Bernard Young, local Girl Scout commissioner.

Mrs. Mack Noggle, chairman of the Camping Committee, gave a resume of the activities at the lodge, stating that more girls than ever before had availed themselves of the facilities for camping. She stressed the goal of more and better camping and reminded the group to "put more out in Scouting."

The Troop Development Committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Sheldon Mader, concentrated on providing interested leadership for troops already established before attempting to form.

They will endeavor in 1951 to get the long list of interested girls into Scouting which can be done if the interest of more adults is stimulated. To accomplish this aim, Troop 7 and Troop 15 will be on the program of the next Circleville Parent-Teacher Association meeting Feb. 8.

Troop 7, whose leader is Mrs. Harry Graef, assisted by Mrs. Tom Hill, will present several folk dances. Troop 15, Brownies, under the leadership of Mrs. Clay Vaughn and Mrs. Lee Cook, will present the "Brownie Story."

The Public Relations Committee, with Mrs. Robert Hedges as chairman, also reported.

Mrs. Carle Snider gave a report of the Program Committee, stating that several foreign speakers were heard at various association meetings and 30 "Schoolmates Overseas" bags were completed and mailed by the girls. Also the girls contributed $59 to the Juliette Low Fund. A world flag had been presented to the association by Troop 9, Mrs. Amelia L. Garner.

Leader. The Scouts were active in community services of all kinds, cooperating with various civic groups such as Pickaway County Health Association, Cancer Society, veterans' organizations, Pumpkin Show, hospital and nursing homes.

Miss Doris Schreiner reported that her Training Committee had given a total of 516 hours of training to 75 adult members with the purpose of making every adult member a trained worker.

The registrar, Miss Rose Good, reported that 275 girls now are registered as Scouts along with 122 adult leaders, troop committee members and board members.

The slate of nominations, which Mrs. David Goldschmidt presented, was unanimously elected as follows:

Program Committee: Brownie adviser—Mrs. John Heiskell, Juliette Low Fund—Mrs. Donald Mitchell.

Troop Development: Brownie adviser—Mrs. Frank Marion, Intermediate—Mrs. Karl Johnson.

Training Committee: Miss Doris Schreiner, chairman.

Public Relations Committee: Mrs. Glen Weiler, assistant.

Secretary-Treasurer and Finance Committee Chairman: Mrs. Robert Brehmer Jr.

These terms of office all expire Dec. 31, 1953, except that of Mrs. Frank Marion who was elected to fill an unexpired term, ending Dec. 31, 1952.

The goals of the Girl Scout Association for 1951 were those of 1950 with the keynote being "service."

Officials said that: "The association will strive to cooperate with civic groups to build a better community; to strengthen intermediate age group with better program and more adequate leadership; to do a better job of interpreting Girl Scouting to the parents; and to promote a better spirit of cooperation and increased friendship between members of the association and the Girl Scouts."

The chairman, Mrs. Young, appointed two new committees to serve for one year—Mrs. Ernest Young, who will head the House Maintenance Committee with two assistants to be named at a later date; and the Steering Committee, which will consist of Mrs. Young, Mrs. Tom Renick, Mrs. A. P. McCoard and Mrs. Norbert Cochran.

Following adjournment of the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Edwin Jury, Mrs. Joseph Goeller, Mrs. Harold Clifton, Mrs. John Eshelman, Mrs. Amelia Garner, Mrs. Norbert Cochran, Mrs. K. E. Dountz, Mrs. Robert Musser and Mrs. Herbert Southward.

Mrs. Bernard Young and Mrs. Tom Renick served at the tea table.

Baby Pictures Used In Church Group Contest

A novel identification game was used to entertain the members of Family Circle. Trinity Lutheran church, when they met Thursday evening for their monthly covered dish dinner.

Moving pictures were shown to the children while the food committee, made up of Mrs. Ed Peters, Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mr. and Mrs. William Barthelmas, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Skaggs and Robert Brehmer, was arranging the dinner.

For the program the committee secured baby pictures of the members, flashed them on a movie screen, and a panel attempted to identify them by asking leading questions. Members of the panel were Mrs. Luther Walters, Mrs. Marion Steinhauser, Mr. Charles Walters and Brehmer.

Responsible for the program were Mr. and Mrs. Gladden Troutman, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hammel, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lockard, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bell.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodman of East Franklin street are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Jane, to Warren Grover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grover of Williamsport.

Miss Goodman attended Circleville high school, and Mr. Grover is a former student of Monroe high school. Both are employed in Circleville.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Troutmans Back From Florida

The Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Troutman of Circleville Trinity Lutheran church, have returned home after an extended trip in Florida.

Following a tour down the Keys, they flew to Cuba, spending several days there, then visiting Fort Myers where they stayed a week.

They also spent several days with Rev. Mr. Troutman's sister and brother-in-law, The Rev. and Mrs. Schuster in Miami.

Church Choir Given Party

Senior choir of Circleville First Methodist church was entertained in the church social rooms Thursday evening, marking the beginning of rehearsals for the Easter cantata.

Mrs. Harold Deffenbaugh, choir director, assisted by a committee including Mrs. Clyde Wells, Mrs. Veden Couch, Frank Barnhill Jr. and Ray Friend, provided entertainment and served refreshments to the group.

Salvatore Giuliano, the Sicilian bandit, was faced with 117 murder charges when he was killed by police.

Mrs. Patton Asks Caution On United Nations

Mrs. James B. Patton, native of Circleville and president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Thursday declared that:

"Warfare in Korea has shown that, if we are to stop Communist aggression, the United States must retain its independence of action."

Stressing the unalterable stand of the DAR against any world government plan, Mrs. Patton, speaking before the District of Columbia council, Patriotic Women of America, said:

"Communist aggression in Korea, planned in contemptuous defiance of the United Nations, is a potent warning that any form of world government would disarm the United States and place it under the dictatorship of the Kremlin."

"There is no secession from a world government. Once in, we cannot get out. We disarm our defense forces, disarm our country. The atomic bomb becomes the property of world government. Your husband, your son, your daughter, or perhaps you will be sent to the far corners of the earth to 'police' for peace."

The United States is now a target for "planners both good and bad," Mrs. Patton said, and citizens should be alert to examine every proposal with extreme care. She said:

"The United Nations flag should be displayed at Lake Success and at United Nations meetings. It is a banner representing an organization. It does not represent a country. We have the American flag which represents the sacred soil and the people of the United States of America. It should fly from every public building and from every school house in the land."

"There has been a project among youth organizations to make United Nations flags. And there lies a danger that they may form an entirely wrong impression about the relationship of that flag to the flag of our country."

"If they want to do something very patriotic for their country these children could make American flags."

Commercial Point Garden Club Meets

Commercial Point Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. James Crawford of Orient Wednesday to hear talks by two members on house plants.

Rollcall was answered by twenty members and a guest, Mrs. Nora Dechert.

Mrs. George Peters, president, conducted the business session when plans were made for touring gardens of members and to attend a television show in Columbus. The club voted a donation to the March of Dimes.

After the business session, Mrs. O. M. Beckett gave a talk on African violets, and Mrs. George Peters spoke on house plant pests.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Fred Lamb, and Miss Faye Lamb.

Sand Springs Home Keeps Fatherless Families Intact in Widows' Colony
By HENRY LESSENE
Central Press Correspondent
SAND SPRINGS, Okla.—There's a haven for orphans here where a single orphan isn't wanted. But eight or a dozen, or a widow and her fatherless brood—that's different. The idea is to keep families together.

If the brothers and sisters have a mother, they all live in one of about 40 neat rent-free cottages in the Widows' Colony. They are supported until the mother finds a job. Then, by day, she works and leaves the children in the nursery of the Sand Springs Home. At day's end she gets the children and brings them home.

Fabulous Charles Page, an orphan himself, founded this unique institution after he had struck oil in the booming town of Tulsa in 1906, and then he went on to create the town of Sand Springs and an industrial empire to support and perpetuate the Home.

There is much of the stuff out of which life is made to be found in the Home and the Widows' Colony. Among the first family groups to enter the Home were eight children. One of the boys returned from World War I to marry a Home girl.

YEARS AFTERWARD, this couple and their children returned to Sand Springs for the Home's homecoming held every Thanksgiving. While here the father was killed in an automobile accident.

The mother and children moved into the Widows' Colony. She went to work, later re-married, and the family again departed, making room for others.

In the depression of the 1930s a man couldn't support his wife and children and decided the only way they would be helped was for him, an able-bodied man, to desert them, which he did. The family moved into the Widows' Colony.

The children grew up, unaware of their father's secret reason for leaving them. Some years later a "reconciliation" was effected, and the reunited family moved away.

Page bought 160 acres of wilderness to start the Home. Then he brought T. H. Steffens, a railroad man, from St. Louis to build and operate a railroad to the Home from Tulsa, and had Capt. B. F. Breeding of the Salvation Army run the home as superintendent. He himself concentrated on building up the new town of Sand Springs.

TODAY freight from all parts of the world originates on the little short-line Sand Springs railroad and its right of way is lined with industrial plants.

Theoretically, the wealth accruing from the many Sand Springs interests, including the railroad, belongs to the widows and orphans. The Home is a big place, looking like a boarding school. The children are encouraged and often helped financially to go to college. Many of them marry well.

Before his death Page created a foundation to manage the interests which support the Home. When a trustee dies, a successor is appointed by the Oklahoma Grand Master of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. Page made this a stipulation in the by-laws to keep the foundation "out of politics."

Textile Painting Class Formed By Local Agent

A group of women from the Williamsport-Kinderhook vicinity are taking advantage of a comparatively new service offered by Genevieve Alley, home demonstration agent.

These women met recently in the home of Mrs. J. W. Brown for a session of textile painting under the direction of Miss Alley.

Some of the women drew original designs, others took pictures from magazines as models. The designs were drawn on heavy waxed paper, then cut out, making a stencil.

The stencils were pinned to the cloth and a special kind of fabric paint used for painting.

When the paint was dry, the stencil was removed and the colored design left to decorate the apron, place mat, tea towel, chair set or whatever had been chosen for painting.

In two weeks the Williamsport-Kinderhook Homemakers Club will meet to learn how hooked rugs are made. Four of their members have had instruction from Miss Alley and will teach the others. The group has, in previous meetings, learned to braid and crochet rugs.

Members of the club attending the meeting in the Brown home were Mrs. Ross Seymour, Mrs. Charles Lawson, Mrs. Walter Wright, Mrs. Howard Pond, Mrs. Garlan Ruhl, Mrs. Cecil Recob, Mrs. Gerald Reynolds, Mrs. Clarence Clark, Mrs. Aulton Carter, Mrs. Charles Hissey, Mrs. Fred Corcoran, Mrs. J. H. Sudlow, Mrs. Lawrence Nance, Mrs. Warren Straley, Mrs. Roy Rittinger, Mrs. Emmett Gibson, and the hostess, Mrs. Brown.

St. Paul EUB Ladies Meet

Mrs. Oakley Leist of Stoutsville was hostess to Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul Evangelical United Brethren church in her home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. William Richter conducted the business meeting. A donation of $5 was voted to the March of Dimes.

KIRKPATRICK GIVES VIEWS

New Holland Bank Booms Soil Conservation Plan

New Holland First National Bank, under the guidance of veteran farmer and banker George Kirkpatrick, is the first organization of its kind to sponsor the soil conservation movement in Pickaway County.

Last Fall Soil Conservationist James A. Muster called in the New Holland bank and made the acquaintance of Kirkpatrick.

A discussion of soil types and hazards encountered in handling them revealed that Kirkpatrick has had considerable experience as a land appraiser.

Recognizing that the program of the local soil conservation district is the one he is initiating on his own three farms in the New Holland area, Kirkpatrick entered all his land in the program, agreed to sponsor the movement in his community and he asked his son, Harry Kirkpatrick, who manages the farms, to assist in promoting the work.

"AS A RESULT OF HIS interest and Harry's help," says Muster, "the area south and east of New Holland is signed up almost solidly in the 1951 program. North of New Holland, Irvin Yeoman assisted in enrolling a number of farms in his neighborhood."

Reflecting on the significance of soil conservation farming, Banker Kirkpatrick said: "Every business enterprise in the county with practically no exception, depends on the fertility and products of our soils and the prosperity of our farmers."

Kirkpatrick stated that his three farms have been owned by his family for over 50, 80 and 125 years respectively and that he has observed the deterioration of many farms under the type of land handling that has been in vogue for many decades.

"Several years ago," he said, "we began leaving some of our fields in grass for several years and we are strongly impressed with the improvement it made in the soil and the better crop yields that followed."

"We plan to get all our land under such system of management as rapidly as we can in-aurate the new methods with the help of the Pickaway Soil Conservation District."

Muster stated that the pre-planning meetings he holds with his neighbor group co-operators is to begin at once and that the soil surveys will be underway as soon as the land gets in such condition that the soil surveyor can handle the soil.

Man 'Relieved' That He's To Be In Chain Gang

DAYTON, Jan. 26—Peter M. Toht, 45, of Dayton, is "relieved" to know he is returning to a Florida chain gang, ending a 20-year flight.

Dayton authorities picked up Toht yesterday and turned him over to county authorities when they learned Florida officers are on their way to get the man who escaped them in 1931 after serving four months of a six-year sentence for robbery.

Toht, who had exhausted every legal remedy except an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, said:

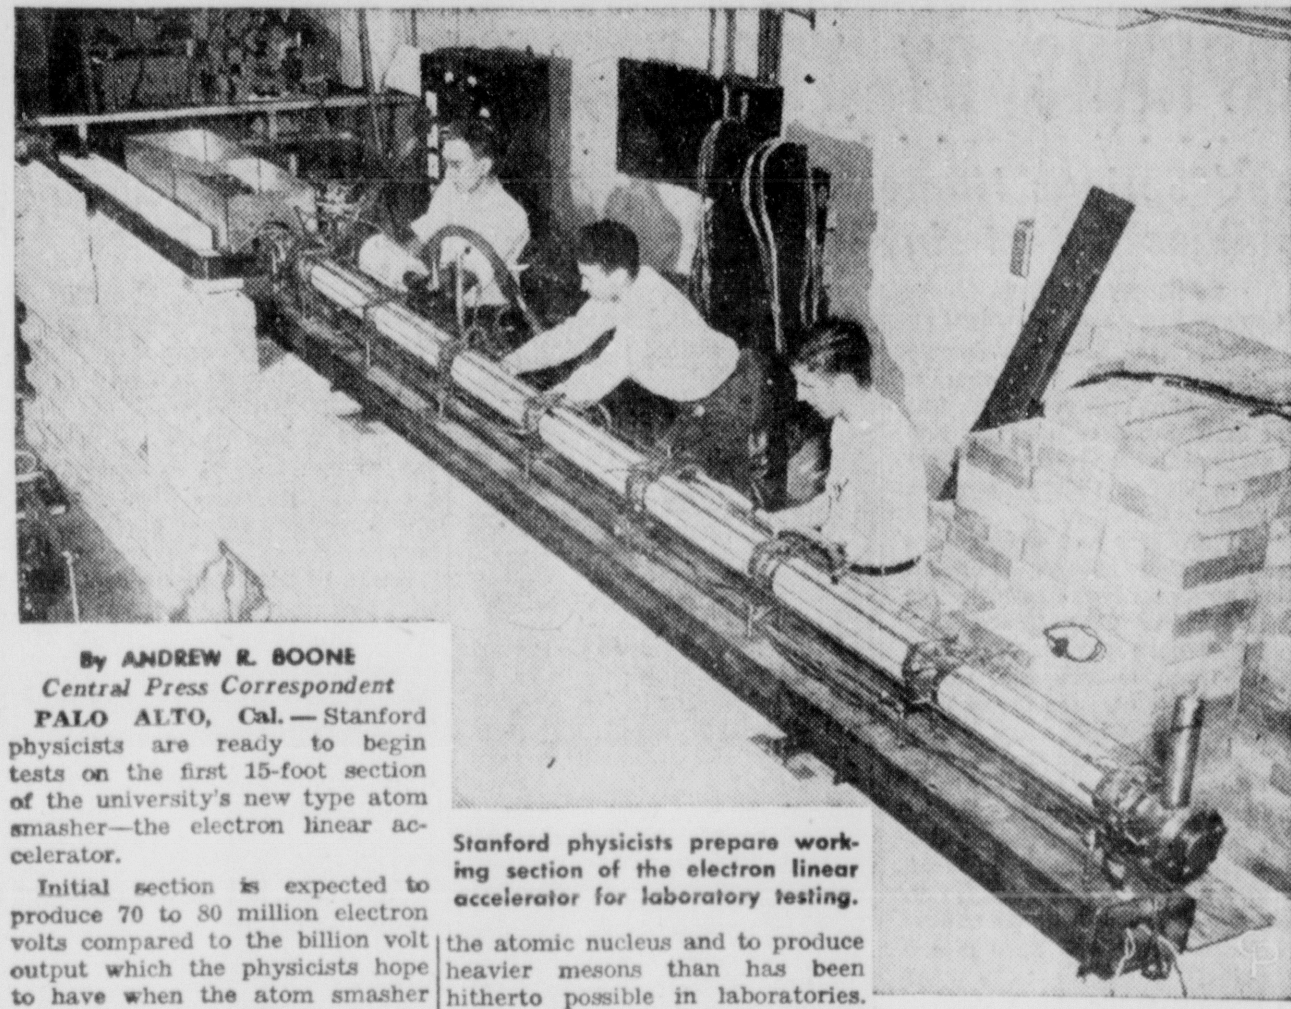

"In a way I'm glad the strain is over. I'm man enough to take my punishment. It's a relief to know I'm headed back and that I'll get it over with. After all, it's not the electric chair."

When he said he wanted to return to Florida as a painter and asked about his status in November, 1949, Southern officials replied with a warrant for his arrest.

Since then, Toht has engaged in many court fights and even made a personal plea to the governor of Ohio to avoid extradition.

But he lost all the rounds. Toht said he did not appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court because such a move would exhaust all his resources and those of his 76-year-old mother.

TEST NEW ATOM SMASHER

Stanford physicists prepare working section of the electron linear accelerator for laboratory testing.

By ANDREW R. BOONE
Central Press Correspondent
PALO ALTO, Cal.—Stanford physicists are ready to begin tests on the first 15-foot section of the university's new type atom smasher—the electron linear accelerator.

Initial section is expected to produce 70 to 80 million electron volts compared to the billion volt output which the physicists hope to have when the atom smasher is completed to its 160-foot length.

The linear accelerator is being built under a contract with the Office of Naval Research.

Power for the accelerator will be generated by a series of highpower vacuum tubes which will be turned on in pulses of only a little over a millionth of a second, then turned off for a sixtieth of a second before being turned on again.

Electrons will speed along this powerful microwave at a speed close to that of light.

Atomic disintegration occurs when a speeding electron, to which tremendous mass and energy have been imparted by acceleration, strikes an atom which happens to be in its path.

The resulting collision is expected to smash large hunks from the atomic nucleus and to produce heavier mesons than has been hitherto possible in laboratories. Mesons are by-products of cosmic ray collisions.

If Stanford physicists are successful in producing billion volt electrons—and it may not be before late in 1951 that they can do so—a number of new experimental fields will be opened in nuclear research.

Assuming that the billion volt electrons will come out of the accelerator "like water out of a spigot," these heavy electrons will provide a new method of studying both the properties of the electron and the proton and possibly the neutron.

The 15-foot electron linear accelerator will be the first one in its energy range in which it will be possible to bring the electrons out of the accelerator into the laboratory for study. This will be true also of the 160-foot model.

In other high-energy electron accelerators, it has not been possible so far to accomplish this feat, which will make it possible for the first time, outside of cosmic ray studies, to investigate adequately the effects of collisions between electrons and nuclei.

The accelerator will also make possible a careful experimental check of the "shower theory," which is based on the phenomenon that particularly energetic particles produce bursts of atomic bits and radiation when they collide.

The existence of the atomic "showers" is known from cloud chamber experiments, but no accurate checks of the theory have been made.

Seed Crop Quality Stressed

Best Gives Tips On OKd Varieties

With farmers moving into the 1951 crop season with increasing demand for their product, they are inspecting seed quality with close scrutiny.

Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, said this week that a major aid to local farmers who want to maintain or increase production is to plant adapted varieties and hybrids among the various seeds offered.

Best declared: "The following crop varieties and hybrids are adapted to Pickaway County conditions and, in general, they will give a higher yield per acre than varieties and hybrids of unknown adaptability."

The winter wheat crop is already planted; however, Butler, Seneca, Vigo and Trumbull should be remembered for seeding next fall.

"Oats: Mindo (new, seed limited), Clinton 59 and Columbia.

"As yet, there is no outstanding wheat and oat varieties that are adapted to Pickaway County."

"IF YOU HAVE been growing other wheat and oat varieties that give you a good yield, don't discard them, they may be the best there is available. However, we should not hesitate to try out new recommended varieties on part of our acreage."

"Short Season Corn: Ohio W10, W36 and W64.

Mid-Season Corn: Iowa 4059, Ohio C12, C38, C47 and C54.

Full-Season Corn: U. S. 13, Ohio L41 and L51.

There is considerable evidence that Ohio W64, C54 and L51 are less liked by corn borers than other hybrids.

Soybeans: Hawkeye and Lincoln.

Alfalfa: Common, if a one or two-year meadow is desired. Seed from Northern Oklahoma is more satisfactory than seed grown farther south.

"Use Buffalo or Atlantic if a

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 — The installation of filters in television sets will greatly reduce their radiation which interferes with airports and broadcasting stations.

three-year or longer meadow is desired.

RED CLOVER: Use locally-grown Common for one - year meadows; Kenland, Cumberland or Kentucky 215 for two-year stands.

"In general, crop seeds are in good supply; some of the better varieties may not supply the demand."

"There is a lot of variation in the quality of crop seeds being offered for sale. Be sure and check the variety, germination, origin and purity when you buy your seeds."

Ike To Confer With Canadian Defense Chiefs

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 — General Dwight D. Eisenhower was to arrive here today, on the last leg of his tour of ten Atlantic Pact powers.

Immediately on his arrival from Iceland he will rush into conferences with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, Defense Minister Brooke Claxton, members of the cabinet defense committee and the chiefs of Canada's armed forces.

While Eisenhower will tell of the vast task which lies ahead in building up the defenses of Europe he will hear from Canada's leaders of the vast contribution Canada is making.

He will be told that:

1. A special force of ten thousand men, now stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., is ready for service in Korea or under Eisenhower in Europe.

2. A Canadian fighter squadron is already stationed in Britain with many more squadrons to join it later in the year.

3. Canada has offered to train thousands of British and European airmen similar to the gigantic commonwealth air training plan in operation during the last war.

4. Canada has already voted $30 million for arms for Europe, with more money to be voted by the parliamentary session opening next week.

5. Canada already has sent equipment for one division of troops to Holland.

27 FIRMS, 1,516 WORKERS

Manufacturing Directory Show County's Standing

In 1949 Pickaway County had 27 manufacturing establishments employing 1,516 persons. Of the total employees 972 were male and 544 female.

This information is contained in an annual Manufacturers' Directory published by the state industrial relations department.

The directory lists all manufacturers in the state of Ohio according to their principal product and the number of men and women employed during a representative week.

It shows that in the five year period since the end of World War II, 1945 to 1949, inclusive, Ohio gained 2,041 new manufacturing establishments.

Covering the year 1949 the directory shows that Ohio had 11,048 manufacturing establishments employing 1,083,065 individuals.

THE DIRECTORY does not include non-manufacturing establishments of which the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation lists about 69,000 employing three or more workers in Ohio.

The volume shows the following figures for counties neighboring Pickaway County:

Fairfield, 52 firms employing 6,014 persons; Fayette, 25 firms,

1,037 employees; Franklin, 636 firms, 53,377 employees; Highland, 32 firms, 1,662 employees; Hocking, 33 firms, 1,144 employees; Madison, 14 firms, 749 employees; and Ross County, 35 firms, 3,681 employees.

In manufacturing establishments the ratio of male to female employment ran about four to one during 1949. There were 857,477 males representing 79.2 per cent of the total, and 225,588 females accounting for 20.8 per cent of all those employed.

But employment in Ohio manufacturing plants does not show the vast Ohio industrial potential now being called upon in the defense production program. The publication shows that Ohio has a large number of manufacturing establishments vitally important to this nation's preparedness effort.

There are 536 firms employing 37,603 people in chemical and allied products manufacturing; rubber manufacturing takes place in 134 Ohio plants employing 68,432 individuals; primary metal industries employed 162,293 people in 484 plants.

Industries fabricating metal products reported 1,272 establishments employing 120,457.

THE NATION'S mobilization program will depend greatly on the 173 Ohio firms manufacturing laboratory, scientific, and engineering instruments, mechanical measuring and controlling instruments, optical instruments and lenses, surgical, medical, and dental instruments, photographic equipment, watches, clocks, and clockwork-operated devices that employed nearly ten thousand persons in 1949.

The volume shows that machinery manufacturers had the largest employment in the state during 1949, with 182,139 workers. Of the twenty industrial groups covered, it had the largest number of men employed, 158,110.

The leading industrial group for female employment were firms making electrical machinery, equipment and supplies. They had 29,425 women workers in the state during 1949. Next group in number of female workers were machinery manufacturing with 24,029 employees.

Opera Star Is Lauded For Versatility

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 — Versatile is the word for Jarmila Novotna, Metropolitan Opera soprano.

She sang Freia in Wagner's "Das Rheingold" yesterday afternoon and came back at night in the role of Prince Orlofsky in Johann Strauss' "Fledermaus." Opera officials said the appearance of a star twice in one day is as rare as a baseball pitcher twirling a doubleheader. But never before, they said, had one switched from a female to a male role the same day . . . and in different languages.

The soprano sang Freia in German, Orlofsky in English. In the latter role she did all right smoking a cigarette in a 15-inch rhinestone-studded holder, but, she complained, her monologue wouldn't stay put on the high notes.

Commerce Says It Still Is Very Much Alive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — W. W. Chambers, Jr., partner with his father in Washington's most publicized undertaking firm, has given his display at the Commerce Department a state funeral.

The Chambers firm, along with other members of the District Junior Chamber of Commerce, was invited to put on a display at a Jaycee trade show in the lobby of the Commerce Department Building. All went well until show officials discovered the display was a flower-surrounded casket, an expensive one.

Taste of the display was questioned, and Chambers Junior was asked to remove it. He did, with the aid of four pallbearers and to the acute embarrassment of Commerce Building guards, right out the front door and into a waiting hearse.

Gaping tourists were informed it was not a state funeral and that the Commerce Department is still very much alive.

Lodge Official Given Freedom

TOLEDO, Jan. 26 — Thomas Langdon, 50, former secretary of the Toledo lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose who embezzled $7,000 in bonds, is free today on two years' probation.

The former lodge official, who pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement, was placed on probation late yesterday after he promised to make good the loss.

Common Pleas Judge John W. Hackett set Langdon free after Harry Friberg, Lucas County assistant prosecutor, notified the court that Langdon had promised to return the money.

Remington Due For New Query

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 — William Remington faces further cross-examination today at his trial on a charge of perjury.

Remington, former Commerce Department employee, was on the stand throughout yesterday's trial with United States Attorney Irving Saypol.

Persistent questioning by Saypol failed to shake the story of Remington that he never was a Communist. The perjury charges grew out of a previous denial before a federal grand jury that he was a party member.

New Lex Plant Gets Ammo Order will add 250 employees to the Evans Reamer and Machine Co. in New Lexington within the next 60 days.

William J. Blazek, general manager and vice-president of the local plant, said yesterday that production will begin as soon as machines to make the parts become available.

The special dinner meeting, which will be highlighted by initiation of a class of ten candidates, is scheduled for Tuesday evening, Feb. 6.

This meeting is slated to start with full dinner at 6:30 p. m.

During the initiation ceremony, past exalted rulers are scheduled to take over chair of offices to conduct the ritual.

Nomination of new officers for the lodge is scheduled for March 6 with formal election slated for March 20.

The list of past exalted rulers, who have served since the lodge was instituted Feb. 16, 1888, contains 55 names.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

BUCKS COULD HIRE BIERMAN

OSU Red-Faced As Fesler Flies To Gopher Parley

By KEN OPSTEIN
INS Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 26—The University of Minnesota's hiring of Wesley Fesler as football coach not only has left Ohio State officials embarrassed but in a position to retaliate and create one of gridiron's keenest rivalries.

Bernie Bierman has not retired from football despite his resignation at Minnesota. Ohio State could sign Bierman to a contract if it desired.

The Gray Eagle is available and is willing to listen to any good offer. He will not seek the Buckeye coaching job, however, because he believes the time has come in football when the job should seek the man.

He probably is correct for if Ohio States wants him, the school's officials will approach him.

Fesler left Ohio State authorities somewhat red-faced by resigning Dec. 9. The one-time All-America end claimed the emphasis on winning was creating a pressure upon him that was affecting his health.

HE SID HE WAS quitting football to enter the real estate

Kid Gavilan Is Favored To Defeat Young

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—Kid Gavilan and Paddy Young fight in Madison Square Garden tonight in a featured ten-rounder that should do more for the fans and less for the boxers than any other match of the season so far.

Gavilan, flashy Cuban welterweight, is a 7 to 5 choice to dispose of his heavier opponent. But a victory over Young is not likely to accelerate the Kid's shot at Welterweight Champ Ray Robinson.

As for Young, he is awaiting imminent induction into the armed service, so the 22-year-old Greenwich Village middleweight will be fighting strictly for the present tonight.

None of this detract from the promise of a stirring bout as the Garden has seen in some time, and a goodly house of 10,000, paying about $35,000, is expected to show up despite the lure of television.

It's figured that Young, especially with the eight-pound weight advantage his 156 pounds will give him, will throw the harder rocks in tonight's main event, but Gavilan is an old hand at taking punches.

Besides, he seems a step faster than Young, and his straight punches may beat Paddy's hooks to the target.

Bantam Ben Takes Lead In Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Jan. 26—Ben Hogan, back in the stride that made him golfdom's mighty mite, today paced a field of 122 into the second round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

The Hershey, Pa., better returned to competitive golf for the first time in six months yesterday and fired a six-under-par first-round 33-32-65.

The feat put him a stroke in front of Lawson Little of Monterey, Cal., and Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich. Little shot a 32-34 while Harbert carded a 35-31.

Bunched back of them with scores of 67 were Johnny Bulla of Verona, Pa., Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C.

Defending Champion Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Cal., virtually blew himself out of contention with a four-over-par 75.

Cary Middlecoff, recent winner of the Long Beach Open, fared little better, taking a 73.

"Not only the commissioners but the managers and players in non-pro baseball are appreciative of what Chandler has done for them during his tenure of office. He went out of his way to open tournaments in small towns just because he liked baseball and liked to create baseball interest wherever possible."

Ashville Oracle Has Tough Picks In Friday Tests

Darby, Walnut, New Holland and Monroe basketball teams have been picked as winners in Friday night's county league contests by the Ashville predictor.

To date, given the double-cross by his Ashville Bronco team and Jackson's Wildcat cagers, the Ashville oracle has connected for 31 correct selections in 43 games, an average of 72.09 percent.

In last week's league play, Ashville gave the oracle a jolt by slipping to a defeat at the hands of Pickaway Pirates, while Jackson, which has been a thorn in his side, complied with the oracle's guessperring to suffer a narrow loss at Walnut.

This week's selections by the Ashville oracle should be touch-and-go, however, with some of the most evenly matched encounters of the season in the tossup.

In Friday's league contests, Williamsport will travel to Darby; Walnut will invade Atlanta; New Holland will invade at Jackson; and Saltcreek will travel to Monroe.

THE TOP THREE contests, in view of the way the league has shaped up to date, could be won by any one of the six teams involved, although Monroe, leading the county league pack, is definitely favored over Saltcreek in the fourth match.

Only other game on tap for county teams Friday is a Pickaway invasion at Stoutsville.

Here is the way the Ashville oracle sees the outcome of the league tests:

"Williamsport at Darby—Should be the week with my pick going to DARBY."

"Walnut at Atlanta—Won the last two games by four points, not much more margin here. WALNUT."

"New Holland at Jackson—Still co-leaders. NEW HOLLAND."

"Saltcreek at Monroe—Was swamped by Mt. Sterling last Tuesday, will do the same to the Warriors. MONROE."
